

Catalogue of Mental Health Measures

NEWS & UPDATES

What's new on the Catalogue?

Input from the public page

Check out our new Input from the public page where we share how we implement feedback from public contributors, such as members of the DATAMIND Super Research Advisory Group. The page also highlights how researchers and the public can collaborate to co-produce research.

New accessibility feature

Across the Catalogue, we have integrated definitions for key terms from the DATAMIND Glossary. The integration of the glossary aims to clarify any complex language used in mental health data science and increase the accessibility of the content of the Catalogue to all users.

Be sure to follow the links included throughout the newsletter, indicated by the symbol!

Atlas of Longitudinal Datasets Webinars

Earlier this year, we launched the Atlas of Longitudinal Datasets, an online searchable platform with information about nearly 2,000 longitudinal datasets from across the world.

The PALM team is now offering free webinars on the Atlas, how to use it and interesting insights from creating and developing it.

If you are interested in organising a webinar for your team or organisation, email us at atlas.longitudinaldatasets@kcl.ac.uk

Team updates

We welcomed 3 new research assistants to the PALM team: Georgina, Siann and Rizza!

Want to unsubscribe from the mailing list of the Catalogue of Mental Health Measures? Click here